Spotlight On... George Selden

he Cricket in Times Square was written by American author George Selden in 1960. Selden was born on May 14th, 1929 in Connecticut USA. Just like the characters in his story, he also lived in New York City for a short time.

Selden got the idea for the story coming home from work one day. He was riding on the subway when he heard a cricket chirping in the station at Times Square. He started thinking; "How would a cricket end up in Times Square?" The story grew in his imagination right away. The story won the 1961 Newbery Honor Award. In 1973, it was made into an animated movie.

Selden wrote 7 books in the series about Chester, the cricket. He wrote 16 children's nt he books and two plays in all. Selden said the did not like his writing in the first two books. continued to write and improve his wrote Tucker's Countryside as a follow-u The Cricket in Times Square, and this was his favorite book.

📕 Writing Task #1 Chapters 1 to 3

Write a Post Card Home

Chester is writing to his friend the bullfrog back home on a post card. He has only space for 5 sentences. What is the most important thing that happened in the story that he would write about on his post card? Where did it happen? Put a picture of the place on the front of the postcard. On the back of the picture, write a 5 sentence note to the bullfrog back home about what important event happened in New York City.

Writing Task #2

A Word of Advice

Imagine Chester had a cousin who is coming to visit him. If you were Chester, what advice would you give to his cousin who is coming to Times Square, New York City? What would Chester tell him to bring, and why? What would Chester tell him to be careful about and why? What would Chester tell him that he should see and do and why? Now, write Chester's cousin a letter telling him all your good advice.
